shooting Passyno because the latter had requested it and paid $5 for the execution.

"Maybe he did," said the magistrate, "but when I was in the district attorney's office a dozen years ago, a man came to me and related a horrible murder he had committed. I later found that he was insane and had nothing to do with it. When you get proper proof to show me Savin murdered his friend, bring him here and I will permit drawing up of the complaint."

Savin was taken back to police headquarters, while the New York authorities got in touch with Jersey officials for evidence.

Upon further questioning Savin was alleged to have told them that. like many Russians, the thought of suicide had recurred often to the mind of his chum when luck seemed against him. Savin said he had pleaded with his friend not take his own life and Passyno finally had promised. But die he must, Passyno said, according to the Savin confession, and insisted that his friend, to prove his loyalty, must kill him. "I saw he was in earnest and there was nothing else to do," Savin was quoted by the police.

A perplexing development to the authorities was the discovery of $400 in a bank deposited to Passyno's credit.

Fugitive Killed By Freight Train.

MOBILE, ALA. Nov. 4.—Peter Martin, a fugitive from the city chain gang, where he was serving fifty days for violating the prohibition law, met death today under the wheels of a Louisville and Nashville freight train, on which he was riding in a effort to escape. Martin was a marine fireman and a strange feature of his death is that he was serving out his time cleaning cemetery lots and tomorrow will be buried in the same place that he escaped from.

[By Associated Press.] WEEHAWKEN, N. J., Nov. 4.-The

Erie Railroad's Weehawken piers and water front yards were laid waste early today by one of the most spectacular fires the metropolitan area has witnessed in years.

Five piers, all heavily laden with freight; a five-story flour warehouse. thirty loaded barges, a train of thirty loaded freight cars and another of five oil tanks, were destroyed. Early estimates of the loss ranged from $1,000,000 up, but the figures were frankly guesses and will remain spe ulative until a check can be made of the variegated shipments that were in transit.

Draws Great Crowds.

The fire was discovered shortly be-fore midnight on Pier C. Within an hour it had swept over nearly a half mile of water front, illuminating the sky for miles around and drawing great throngs of spectators to the Jersey and Manhattan sides of the Hudson.

A strong breeze which fanned the flames carried embers across the river, showering them down on the New York water front and carrying some as far as Times Square.
